

Biography:

Lili Pan has been teaching in a variety of settings for more than twenty years. She joined the Foreign Language Department of Lexington Public Schools (MA) in 2002, the very first year that a Mandarin program was offered there and she continues to teach there now. She currently works with Chinese students of all levels and backgrounds from first-year students to AP students. It is Lili's greatest joy to see her students continue their Chinese study in college or major in Chinese in some cases. Lili is a certified public school teacher and she is also certified to offer the AP Chinese Language and Culture course in her high school.
